

Living in a city SO DOMINATED by corporate models and minds, I am not in favor of rules and laws that make it easier for fewer numbers to control information and material for mass consumption. There may be problems as it stands, but consolidation will further hurt the situation. Leave things alone until a good idea is offered to make it better.